International social science journal

Subject and author index

Vol. XXXII (1980)

Subjects

Africa, state in dominated social formations of, 730–42
Algeria, women's work in, 464–78
Anthropological study of work concepts, 517–31
Anthropology of tourism, 56–68
Architecture for tourists, 44–55
Children's work, 479–89
China, social sciences in, 567–9
Collective action, states and ideologies, in Western Europe, 671–86 Communication and dialectics of modernization, 247–63 and the economy, 264–82
  human, philosophical perspective on, 199–206 systems and science, 207–22 systems, status of human operator in, 304–22
Conflict of media, in industrial society, 238–46
Cultural problems of direct satellite broadcasting, 283–303
Data collection, problems of, in small islands, 560–3 Development
  national, and multinational corporations, 158–72 project, in Ecuador, 175–8 science and technology, 151–7
Development policy, reorientation of, 771–8
Direct satellite broadcasting, cultural problems of, 281–303
Documentation of intergovernmental organizations, 372–82
Economic ideology, limits of, 517–31
Economic perspective on communication in North America, 264–82
  on the museum, 323–39
Economic policy of developing countries, 771–8 and multinational corporations, 158–72
Economic theory of work, 505–16
England, formation of modern state 687–716 Europe
  leisure and tourism in, 99–113
  Western, states, ideologies and collective action in, 671–86
France, formation of modern state, 687–716
German Democratic Republic, work and personality development in, 444–63
Greece, primary socio-economic data structure of, 343–58
Historical contexts of state formation, 624–54
Historical formations of the state, in the Third World, 717–29
India, early state formation in, 655–69
Industrial society conflict of media in, 238–46
  work and values in, 427–41
Information support systems and research, 555–9
Institute of Economic Research (Quito, Ecuador), 175–8
Intergovernmental organizations, documentation of, 371–82
Internationalization, tourism in the process of, 14–43
Japan, tourism within, from and to, 128–50
Labour disputes, settlement of, 490–504
Leisure and tourism, in Europe, 99–113
Mass media and mass communication, sociology of, 223–37
Media, conflict of, 238–46
Modernity, curse of, 247–63
Multinational corporations and national development, 158–72
Museum in economic perspective, 323–39
National political units, standardized list of, 835–49
New international economic order, and reorientation of economic policy, 771–8
North American perspective on economics of communication, 264–82
Operator, human, in communication systems, 304–22
Peru, primary socio-economic data structure of, 781–824
Philosophical perspective on human communication, 199–206
Poland, international tourism from, 114–27

Political units, standardized list of national, 835–49
Research and information support systems, 555–9 problems of, in small islands, 560–3
Science, technology and development, 151–7
Self-reliance, and tourism, 69–98
Social policy and social science, interplay between, 361–8
Social sciences in China, 567–9
Socio-economic data structure of Greece, 343–58
of Peru, 781–824
of Sri Lanka, 535–54
Sociology of mass media and mass communication, 223–37
Sri Lanka, primary socio-economic data structure, 535–54
State and society, 600–8
and the world system, 751–69
apparatus and socio-economic change in Third World, 717–29 comparative analysis of formation, 624–54 formation, in early India, 655–69
in Africa, 730–42
process of formation, diversity and bases of, 609–23 States
ideologies and collective action, 671–86 in capitalist world economy, 743–51 modern, strategic interactions and formations, 687–716
Technology, science and development, 151–7
Third World, state apparatus in, 717–9
Tourism and leisure, in Europe, 99–113
anthropology of, 56–68
centre-periphery, and self-reliance, 69–98 in the process of internationalization, 14–43 originating from Poland, 114–27
within, from and to Japan, 128–50
Tourists, architecture for, 44–55
Tribe, concept of, 827–30
United Kingdom, supply and demand for documentation of intergovernmental organizations in, 372–82
Women's work in Algeria, 464–78
Work and the loss of meaning, 416–26 and personality development, in the German Democratic Republic, 444–63 and values, in industrial society, 427–41 children's, reconsidered, 479–89 classical and romantic approaches to, 405–15 concepts, comparative anthropological study of, 517–31 towards a more general economic theory of, 505–16
women's in Algeria, 464–78
World economy, states in, 743–51
World system, states and, 752–69

Authors

ADLER, Frank. Work and personality development in the German Democratic Republic, 442–63

ANTHONY, Peter David. Work and the loss of meaning, 416–26

BENATIA, Farouk. Some ideas about women's work in Algeria, 464–78

BÉTEILLE, André. On the concept of the tribe, 827–30

BIRNBAUM, Pierre. States, ideologies and collective action in Western Europe, 671–86

BORNSCHIER, Volker. Multinational corporations, economic policy and national development in the world system, 158–72

BRUCAN, Silviu. The state and the world system, 752–69

CHENG-FANG, Yang. The social sciences in China, 567–9

CHERNS, Albert. Work and values: shifting patterns in industrial society, 427–41

EISENSTADT, S. N. Comparative analysis of state formation in historical contexts, 624–54

EMMANUEL, Patrick A. M. Problems of research and data collection in small islands without a social science faculty, 560–3

ENGLAND, Richard. Architecture for tourists, 44–55

FREY, Bruno S. The museum from an economic perspective, 323–39

GODELIER, Maurice. Processes of the formation, diversity and bases of the state, 609–23

GONZALEZ VIGIL, F. National primary socio-economic data structures. VII: Peru, 781–824

GRABURN, Nelson H. H. Teaching the anthropology of tourism, 56–68

GREENE, J. E. Research and information support systems, 555–9

GVISHIANI, Dzhermen M. Development problems, contemporary science and technology, 151–7

HALINA, J. W. Communications and the economy: a North American perspective, 264–82

HANAMI, Tadashi A. The settlement of labour disputes in worldwide perspective, 490–504

HEIBERG, Turid. Centre-periphery tourism and self-reliance, 69–98

HØIVIK, Tord. Centre-periphery tourism and self-reliance, 69–98

HOPKINS, Michael. The documentation of intergovernmental organizations: a critical survey of supply-and-demand situations in the United Kingdom, 371–82

IETSWAART, Heleen F. P. A successful development project in Ecuador: the Institute of Economic Research, 175–8

KARUNATILAKE, H. N. S. National primary socio-economic data structures. VI: Sri Lanka, 535–54

KOROBEINIKOV, Valery S. Conflicts of media in modern industrial society, 238–46

LANFANT, Marie-Françoise. Tourism in the process of internationalization, 14–43

LITTUNEN, Yrjö. Cultural problems of direct satellite broadcasting, 283–303

LUTZ, Mark A. Towards a more general economic theory of work, 505–16

MIHOVILOVIĆ, Miro A. Leisure and tourism in Europe, 99–113

O'DONNELL, Guillermo. Comparative historical formations of the state apparatus and socio-economic change in the Third World, 717–29

POMMEREHNE, Werner W. The museum from an economic perspective, 323–39

POULANTZAS, Nicos. Research note on the state and society, 600–8

REIN, Martin. Methodology for the study of the interplay between social science and social policy, 361–8

ROGALEWSKI, Olaf. International tourism originating from Poland, 114–27

SCHILDKROUT, Enid. Children's work reconsidered, 479–89

SCHWIMMER, Erik. The limits of the economic ideology: a comparative